Sydney Conveyancer Firm Adds New Handy Web Feature

December 02, 2022

December 02, 2022 -
LEAD Conveyancing Sydney, a conveyancing company based in NSW, was happy to announce that they recently launched an innovative feature on their website. The state-of-the-art free conveyancing fees calculator is a tool that helps site visitors know the costs of the services the company offers. For more information about LEAD Conveyancing Sydney, visit their official website.

The free-of-charge calculator has four categories that site visitors must choose if they buy, sell, transfer or seek a contract review. Once the user fills out all the needed information, a free fixed quote will be sent to the user?s given email address. The free quote shows all the fees for the conveyance, including the detailed breakdown of third-party costs.

LEAD Conveyancing Sydney can transact for real estate properties like existing houses, units of an apartment, off-plan properties and vacant land. The price for each conveyancing service is fixed unless the transaction becomes a non-standard contract of sale. One of the instances of a contract of purchase becoming non-standard is the inclusion of special conditions within the contract.

Sherry Chen, one of the Senior Lawyers of the conveyancing firm, expressed her gratitude to the IT department of their company by saying, "This new modern and helpful website feature would not be possible without our brilliant IT team. They are the ones who proposed this plan to Trinh, our boss. A calculator like this is an excellent tool for promoting our services right off the bat. There is no need for interested people to reach one of us to enquire about the costs of our services.

"In just a few clicks, they will find out how much it costs if they need legal assistance in buying, selling or transferring the ownership of their real estate properties."

Conveyancing is a legal procedure for transferring ownership of any real estate property in Australia. It is a systematic process that involves property law throughout the whole transaction. Ordinary people are prone to putting themselves at risk if they do conveyancing by themselves. It is always beneficial to hire a licensed conveyancing solicitor to get the job done. A conveyancer solicitor is a fully qualified solicitor who can undertake the conveyancing process on their client's behalf.

They specialise in property conveyancing and are knowledgeable about property law.

LEAD Conveyancing Sydney is a registered conveyancing firm with several licensed conveyancing solicitors. They operated for a decent amount of time and handled all types of property conveyancing throughout the years. Most of their members worked at different conveyancing firms before joining LEAD, which makes them experienced enough to deal with all types of transactions.

LEAD Conveyancing Sydney headquarters is located at Level 36, Governor Phillip Tower, 1 Farrer PI, Sydney 2000, Australia, less than a 15-minute walk from the Sydney Opera House. They are open six days a week from 8 am to 8 pm and have 24-hour online customer service. For further details about the company?s range of services and operations across Australia, visit the official LEAD Conveyancing Sydney website.
