Kraken Bond Introduces Complimentary ThermaFoam Bundle for Spray Foam Insulation Kit Orders

July 15, 2026

CHANTILLY, VA - July 15, 2026 -

Kraken Bond has introduced a new bundling initiative that includes ThermaFoam Wide Spray at no additional cost with all FastCoat spray foam insulation kits containing 18 cans or more. The Chantilly, Virginia-based manufacturer implemented this change to provide contractors and homeowners with a comprehensive two-part system for attic and roof insulation projects as summer approaches.

The bundled offering addresses a critical challenge in residential and commercial insulation projects. Unsealed attics and roof decks remain a significant source of summer heat gain, substantially increasing cooling costs for property owners. The combination of FastCoat closed-cell foam for large surface coverage and ThermaFoam Wide Spray for hard-to-reach areas provides complete insulation coverage that single-product applications often miss.

FastCoat's closed-cell foam effectively seals large surfaces, while the included ThermaFoam Wide Spray reaches corners, seams, and duct penetrations that primary foam applications cannot adequately cover. This dual-product approach ensures comprehensive insulation coverage, particularly important in complex attic configurations where gaps and penetrations commonly occur.

"The timing of this bundle change aligns with the pre-summer insulation season when contractors and homeowners are preparing for peak cooling demands," said Michael Harrison, Vice President of Product Development at Kraken Bond. "By including ThermaFoam Wide Spray with our larger FastCoat kits, we're providing installers with everything they need to deliver complete insulation solutions without additional procurement steps or costs."

The FastCoat spray foam insulation products featured in this bundle offer an R-value of 5.66 per inch, providing superior thermal resistance for energy efficiency. Each can delivers up to 20 board feet of coverage, allowing contractors to calculate project requirements accurately. The product meets Class A Fire Rating standards per ASTM E84, ensuring compliance with building codes and safety requirements.

General contractors and insulation installers handling attic and roof projects benefit from having both products readily available on job sites. The bundled approach eliminates the need for separate orders and ensures compatibility between primary and detail insulation applications. DIY homeowners tackling attic projects before summer heat peaks also gain access to professional-grade materials typically reserved for commercial applications.

The insulation industry continues to evolve as energy efficiency becomes increasingly important for both new construction and retrofit projects. Comprehensive insulation solutions that address both primary coverage and detail work represent a significant advancement in installation methodology.

Kraken Bond maintains an educational presence through various channels, including Kraken Bond on YouTube, where installation techniques and best practices are demonstrated for both professional contractors and DIY enthusiasts. These resources help ensure proper application of spray foam insulation products for optimal performance.
